e-business

e-business (e-bíž-nīs) n. e-business is about transforming key business processes by using Internet technologies.

Classic business models were reinvented or disrupted by the Web

- Advertising
- Subscription
- Brokerage
- Retail
- Franchise
- Licensing
- “Razors and blades”
- Professional services
- Pay-per-use
- etc

Now full fare passengers to the States get a better deal.

New Club Class with Elizabethan Service

From October 29th, pay full economy fare to the U.S.A* and you travel in a class of your own-new Club Class. You enjoy special check-in facilities at Heathrow, New York and all other U.S. Gateways. In-flight drinks are free. So too is the entertainment -including the film. And you sample our new Elizabethan Service with its authentic Tudor dishes. So next time you've business in the States, fly the flag. Fly British Airways new Club Class. Ask your British Airways Shop or Travel Agent for details.

*except to Anchorage.

With Web

The architecture of Solid changes the Value Chain and the Trust model

Model Type	Without Web	With Web	With Solid Individual data sovereignty
Advertising	Broadcasters, publishers sell ads to find buyers	Individual is targeted by brand advertiser in real-time	Brands and publishers bid to individuals for data consent to target adverts
Subscription	Recurring fee for curated content	DTC removes intermediaries	Subscribers trade verified personal data. Share more, pay less.
Brokerage	Intermediary earns fee from information asymmetry	Disintermediation. Web scalers with thinner margins but hyper volumes	New broker class negotiates data access for a fee.
Retail	Wholesale-to-retail margin. Value from price opacity.	Price transparency commoditized margin. DTC bypass retail (bricks to clicks)	Shopper holds preference profile. Retailers compete to earn transaction and loyalty.
Franchise	Proven system of profit licensed to operators who bear capital	Platform model is franchise at scale. Data centralized.	Individuals license to the platform
"Razors and blades"	Profit on lock-in	Freemium inverted it	Data portability dissolves switching cost, the product must earn loyalty on its own terms.
